Social Side of Life

Elaborate dinners and lunches are no longer in vogue, so our smartest friends tell us. Four or five courses are all that are necessary for dinner, but they must be perfectly cooked and served. Lunches are reduced to a few courses and a punch is served through out the meal. How much pleasanter this is than the long drawn-out affairs of the past. Who has not suffered from having to make conversation, for every one can't be placed beside congenial friends, and to be obliged to talk when one has nothing to say is agony indeed. The multi-millionaires of New York and London are setting a sensible fashion and one that will be appreciated by everybody.

The luncheon last Saturday given by Miss Rose Cunha in the private dining room of the Moana hotel for Miss Sullivan was a very charming affair. The table was very effectively arranged with art and taste. The place cards were attached to dainty Hawaiian fans by ribbons, and violets were tied to the handles. Present were Princess Kawanakoa, Mrs. C. W. C. Deering, Mrs. F. Howard Humphris, Mrs. A. G. Hawes, Miss Alice Jones, Miss Beckley, Miss Ena, and Miss Hartnagle.

Miss Alice Campbell's engagement to Walter Macfarlane has not come as a complete surprise to her friends, for Cupid has been very busy of late and the result is particularly pleasing. The young couple will not be married until after Lent and then one may expect a grand wedding for the relatives on both sides are very prominent socially. Miss Campbell is a beautiful girl with lovely dark eyes and hair and she is a general favorite. She is one of the best amateur singers here. Walter Macfarlane is a handsome young man and is considered clever. He belongs to the well known Macfarlane clan. His cousin, Harry Macfarlane, married pretty Polly Dunn of San Francisco about two years ago. The Macfarlane boys have certainly displayed great taste in choosing such lovely girls—and they are both as good as they are beautiful—which is certainly a rare combination.

On Saturday evening last Mr. and Mrs. John Ena gave a dinner for Prince and Princess Kawanakoa. The table looked unusually pretty and was decorated with yellow flowers in the form of a horseshoe. Shaded electric lights were placed amongst the flowers and the effect was most unusual. Among the guests present besides the guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Holloway, Mr. and Mrs. Ashford, Dr. and Mrs. F. Howard Humphris, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. C. Deering, Mrs. Monarrat, Miss Ena, Mr. Jack Atkinson and Robert Shingle.

A little tea was given by Mrs. Jack Ena in the lounge room of the Alexander Young Hotel for Miss Sullivan on Monday afternoon. Among those present were Princess Kawanakoa, Mrs. Clifford Kimball, Mrs. Terry, Harry Macfarlane, Mrs. F. Howard Humphris, Mrs. Alexander Isenberg, Mrs. F. M. Hatch, Mrs. William Taylor, Mrs. Graham, Miss Leontine Hartnagle, Miss Alice Jones, Miss Frances Gillett, Miss Young, Miss Ena, Miss Kimball and Miss Kaufman.

Mrs. Mary Widdfield and Mr. and Mrs. Byron Baird are at the Royal Hawaiian hotel for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilbur (nee Mamie Widdfield) of Key West Station, Florida, are happy in the possession of a little son, born a week ago.

Word comes from Honolulu of the many delightful entertainments Mrs. Frederick Beardslee is giving her friends there. The beautiful home of the Californians are given a royal welcome by her. She was the guest of our city recently and was widely entertained while in San Francisco. Mrs. Beardslee is a hospitable hostess, and Californians who met her here and are visiting the islands are fortunate indeed to have such a charming friend to greet them.

Miss Kathleen Glass arrived on the Logan after nearly a year's absence in the Philippines. She went directly to the home of her parents, Admiral and Mrs. Glass, in Berkeley, and will remain with them until her marriage, which will probably take place in the spring. Her fiancé, Dr. Munson, is still in the Philippines.

There are many very delightful hostesses among the girls. Probably the most active of them all is Miss Ethel Cooper, who already this season has given one large reception, several luncheons and dinners. Not a week passes that she is not hostess at a bridge party. Miss Jennie Blair entertains every week during the season. Among other maidens are the Misses Grace and Lily Spreckels, Miss Leontine Blakeman, Miss Alice Sullivan, Miss Helen de Young, Miss May Colburn, Miss Katherine Dillon and Miss Josephine Loughborough.

Mrs. May Mott-Smith Bird, who left for the East a short time ago, was taken ill in Chicago at the home of her sister, Mrs. Lovett, the wife of Professor Robert Lovett of the University of Chicago. Mrs. Bird was obliged to undergo an operation and will remain with her sister until she is quite recovered.—Examiner.

Mrs. Richard Ivers is being much entertained during her visit in San Francisco. The Examiner says: "Mrs. William Ivers was hostess on Thursday at a luncheon in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Richard Ivers of Honolulu, who is at present Mrs. Ivers's guest. Mrs. Ivers has many friends here, as she is a graduate of the University of California, and as Miss Gertrude Scott was a great belle. Miss Marion Scott, Mrs. Ivers' sister, is also well known here, but at present is at her Honolulu home."

Mrs. Horace Blanchard Chase is planning to leave here December 5th for an extended European tour. She will take the Mediterranean trip and will stay about six weeks in several of the Italian cities, and will be absent a year altogether. Mr. Chase is at present in the East, but will return in time to accompany his wife and children across the ocean. He will return immediately and spend the rest of the winter in Mexico, which is his custom. The following summer he expects to take a flying trip to Europe to visit his family. Mrs. Chase is at present entertaining a very congenial party of friends from Friday till Monday at her beautiful country place, Stag's Leap, in Napa valley. Her guests are Mrs. Reginald Brooke, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kohl, Mrs. Downey Harvey, Mrs. William Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Spreckels, Lansing Mizner and James D. Phelan. Mrs. Chase is a sister of Addison Mizner and she spent some months here about two years ago.

Mrs. May Mott-Smith Bird is making quite a name for herself as a designer of quaint jewelry. Mrs. Frear wears a beautiful necklace which was designed by Mrs. Bird. It is of antique gold set with square pieces of green jade. It fits closely about the neck and is most becoming. Mrs. Bird is most artistic and loves her chosen profession. She also paints very well indeed and has been very successful in disposing of her water colors.

The Prince and Princess Kawanakoa gave a luncheon for Mrs. Cushing, wife of the late Dr. Cushing, who passed through here in the China, on Monday evening.

The tea which ex-Governor Cleghorn gave for her Majesty the Queen last Saturday afternoon at Alahua was a very enjoyable affair. Delicious refreshments were served about by two charming young girls, the granddaughters of the Governor. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Ena, Miss Ena, Mr. and Mrs. Booth, Mrs. J. O. Carter, Miss Carter, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Gulick, Mrs. F. Howard Humphris, Mr. and Mrs. Miki Saito and Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Mori, and Miss Ella Stansbury. An arch composed of palm branches and draped with the stars and stripes.

The receiving party stood beneath an arch composed of palm branches, the Stars and Stripes and the sunburst flag. The party was composed of Consul Miki Saito, Mrs. Saito, the Vice Consul, Prof. and Mrs. Scott, Miss Scott, Mrs. Mori, and Miss Ella Stansbury. Fully four hundred guests were presented by Secretary Atkinson to the receiving party. After the reception was over three cheers were given for the Emperor, the President and the Governor of Hawaii. Then the Ellis quintet struck up music of the embers and the ball was opened. The first set comprised Consul Miki Saito and Mrs. Carter, Governor Carter and Mrs. Miki Saito, Judge Sanford B. Dole, ex-Governor of Hawaii, and the Princess Kawanakoa, and Prince Kawanakoa and Mrs. Sanford B. Dole. The second set was led by the Vice Consul and Mrs. Scott. Among those in the set were Mrs. Gerrit P. Wilder, Miss Scott and Miss Ella Stansbury. Mrs. Miki Saito wore a lovely blue silk entirely covered with a lace overskirt. In her hair were flowers and she looked very sweet and pretty and with her distinguished husband did the honors of the ball most graciously. Mrs. Scott looked handsome and dignified in blue silk. Miss Scott and Miss Stansbury were charming, one in white and one in cream. Mrs. George Carter was much admired in a frock of pearl gray with rare old lace and a necklace of pearls. The Princess Kawanakoa wore one of the handsomest frocks of the evening. It was a pearl gray crepe de chine handsomely embroidered with cherry blossoms and she wore an old needle point lace overdress. In her black hair was a tiara of diamonds and about her with a diamond necklace. Both she and Judge Dole looked perfectly stunning in the lancers and were much remarked upon. Judge Dole is certainly one of the handsomest men in Honolulu and the most distinguished in the island. Mrs. Dole looked most distinguished in a rich silk and real lace. The kimono of L. J. Japanese ladies were much admired and added a picturesque touch. They are certainly a charming people and Thursday evening's ball will live in the memory of their guests. A delicious supper was served at twelve in the drawing rooms, which were converted into a dining room for the occasion.

Dr. and Mrs. McGrew gave a picnic for Mr. and Mrs. Wingate Lake at Ala on Sunday last. Mrs. Lake expects to sail in the transport Thomas for the coast.

Everybody is busily engaged in getting ready for the German Fair. Tickets are only twenty-five cents.

Mrs. George Carter's reception on Wednesday afternoon was a very delightful affair. The house is always cool and inviting and Mrs. Carter's charming manner was appreciated by all her callers. She was assisted in receiving by Miss Ella Stansbury.

On Thursday evening by Japanese Consul Miki Saito and Mrs. Saito in honor of the Emperor's birthday. The decorations were charmingly simple and effective. Japanese lanterns, flags, bunting and palms were all used with good effect. An arch composed of palm branches and draped with the stars and stripes.

The receiving party stood beneath an arch composed of palm branches, the Stars and Stripes and the sunburst flag. The party was composed of Consul Miki Saito, Mrs. Saito, the Vice Consul, Prof. and Mrs. Scott, Miss Scott, Mrs. Mori, and Miss Ella Stansbury. MR. DOOLEY ON THE WAR

Whin wan iv th' ol' kings in Brian Boru's day had a spat with a neighbor, both iv thim ordered hats at th' hardware store an' wint out an' pounded thim till their head ached. That's th' way it ought to be. Supposin' th' Cear iv Rooshya an' th' Mikado iv Japan felt out. What would be dancin' fr thim thim to have a gintlemanly mix-up? Nick Romanoff, th' Russhyan champion, an' Mike Adoo, th' cillybrated Jap'nese Jiu Jitsu bantam, come together las' night before a crowd iv representative sports in a barn on th' outskirts iv th' city. Th' Rooshyan was seconded by Faure, th' Frinch lightweight, an' Bill Honezollern, th' Prooshyan whirlwind. In th' Jap's corner was Al Gueph, who bates th' Llama iv Tibet las' week an' Rosenfeld, th' American champion, who has issued a deft to th' wurruld. Before th' gong sounded th' Jap rushed over an' struck th' Rooshyan a heavy blow beneath th' belt. A claim iv foul was entered but not allowed. At th' tap iv th' gong, both boys wint at it hammer an' tongs, but it was soon apparent that th' Rooshyan, though heavier, was not in as good condition as his opponent. It was Walcott an' Choyinski all over, on'y th' Rooshyan hung on with great courage. At th' end iv th' twentieth round, when both boys were on th' ropes, th' referee, th' well-known fight promoter, Miltie Rothschild, declared th' bout a draw. Considerable bad blood was aroused by a claim be th' fighters that durin' th' battle they were robbed iv their clothes be th' referee's seconds. As a financial enterprise th' fight was a frost. Th' box-office receipts did not ake th' rent iv th' barn an' thralin' expenses, an' th' referee decided that as th' fight was a draw, he was entitled to th' stakes.

"Wudn't it be fine? Who wudn't walk to Bloomington, Illine, to see that sturdy but prudent warrior, th' King iv England, mixin' it up with th' Llama iv Tibet, or our own invincible champion takin' on th' Imp'ror iv Germany? If they didn't like th' weapons, they'd have me permission to use axes. I'd go further. I wudn't bar anybody fr'm fightin' who wanted to fight. If anybody felt th' martial spirit in time, he wud have a chance to use it up. I'd have armies composed iv iv officers. It wud be great. D'y'e s'pose they'd ever get near enough to each other to hurt? They'd complain that th' trouble with th' long distance guns was that they couldn't be made distant enough. Supposin' G'n'al Kurypotkin had to do all th' fightin' fr' himself. It wud be better fr' him, because thim he cud order an advance without bein' so crowded comin' back. Supposin' to gratify his heercy spirit, he had to order himself to carry a trunk, a cook-stove, a shovel, a pick-axe, an' th' Cear two hundred miles over a clay road an' if he did it successfully an' didn't spill anything, he might hope to be punctured by a bayonet. An' s'pose G'n'al Oyama had to walk barefooted across Manchuria an' sub-sist fr' four months be whettin' his beak on a cuttle-fish bone. How soon d'y'e think there wud be a battle? Wud be wan continuous maneuver with wan iv thim maneuverin' west an' th' other maneuverin' east. They'd never meet till years after th' glorious struggle."

"They'll never do it," said Mr. Hennessy. "There have always been wars."

"An' fools," said Mr. Dooley. "But wudn't ye defin' ye'er own freelife?"

"I don't need to," said Mr. Dooley. "If I keep on coal enough, me freelife will make it too hot fr' annywan that invades it."
